

“We live in a world of finite natural resources, but unlimited human potential.”

INFINITE EARTH RADIO

Tune in today to learn about ways that visionary leaders are transforming environments and local economies around the country.

Infinite Earth Radio is a podcast featuring interviews with local leaders and change agents who are transforming the future by building smarter, more sustainable and more equitable businesses and communities.

New in 2018

Infinite Earth Radio will feature four unique series, hosted by speakers from the New Partners Conference.

Smart Growth - with host Kate Meis, Executive Director of the Local Government Commission

Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion - with host Vernice Miller Travis, Skeo's Senior Equity and Environment Justice Advisor

Climate Adaptation – with host Kif Scheuer, Climate Change Program Director at the Local Government Commission

Urban Resilience – with host Mike Hancox, President/CEO of Skeo, in collaboration with Island Press

Our mission is to support visionary local leaders through idea sharing, training, mentoring, and most importantly by creating a support network and building a movement.

Infinite Earth Academy is an idea sharing, training, mentoring, networking, and movement building platform. We believe the path to a more sustainable, resilient, and equitable future is through radical innovation at the local level and rapidly spreading the best ideas, strategies, and tools.

Local and regional leaders are already making great progress in addressing the pressing environmental, economic, and social challenges of our time, but we need to more rapidly spread the best ideas and dramatically increase sustainability, resiliency, and equity in communities across the United States.
